GETTING READY FOR THE FINISH

Jamestown Contest Is the Opportunity of a Lifetime.

FINE TRIP FOR VICTORS.

The Kentuckian's Tour to the Seashore Exciting Lively Interest.

The Jamestown Exposition is due to begin April 26 and the information is that the big show is fully prepared to open with a complete exhibit.

A trip to this historic spot, where 300 years ago this year, the first English settlement was made on American soil, will be the event of the present year. Everybody will want to take this delightful trip to the seashore in the summer. It will be different from any other exposition ever held. Historical matters will be to the front in the exhibits and many articles preserved as heirlooms from the original settlers will be on exhibition.

The Kentuckian's voting contest will afford four ladies an excellent opportunity to see this great show without cost to themselves. It will be a treat second only to the Courier-Journal's tour to Europe last year. The contest is now attracting wide attention and the contestants are lining up for the final struggle. In all of the districts there will be exciting finishes, as much strength is being held in reserve. The coupons clipped from the paper must be used before the end of the month of issue, or they become out of date. Those for March must be sent in to-morrow, or mailed that date. It is useless to send in coupons that are no longer valid.

Subscription coupons may be held back and used any time before the close of the contest on May 15th.

The present standing of the contestants is shown by the table below.

AT NIGHT.

The Street Sweeper Raises the Dust.

The street sweeper has been run at night for a few nights, in order that the dust can be kept out of buildings while the people sleep and the houses are shut up all round. This is a good idea and if the sweeping is kept up during the summer will very materially abate the dust nuisance.

DOCKET IS FINISHED.

Circuit Court Will Probably Adjourn This Afternoon.

SEVERAL CONVICTED.

Order in Putman Case Set Aside and Defendant Gives New Bond.

Circuit court will likely come to a close to-day. The commonwealth docket was completed Friday and only equity matters have been heard since, and this part of the docket will probably be finished up to-day.

The order made Wednesday in the case of Geo. Putman, charged with murder, was set aside and defendant's bond was placed at $2,000, which has been furnished and the case goes over to the June term. Putman is at home sick and was unable to appear in court when his case was called last Wednesday.

In the case of George Crawford, col., charged with malicious shooting, defendant was sentenced to six months in jail at hard labor, the charge having been reduced to shooting in sudden heat and passion.

Ben Hogan and Arthur Major, negroes, charged with larceny from a common carrier, were each given four months in the county jail at hard labor.

Jim Moore and Charles Tuck, negro boys, charged with having thrown stones into an I. C. passenger train near Piererton one evening in December last, were each given one year in the penitentiary.

Merridy Coleman, one of the negroes who escaped from jail here last week, who was charged with malicious shooting, was sentenced to one year in the county jail at hard labor. Coleman, it will be remembered, was captured at Nortonville the night after his escape, and was returned to prison the next morning.

Ed Lascoe, another of the escaped trio, who was arrested at Greenville, was tried Thursday on a charge of horse stealing. The jury gave him two years in the penitentiary.

In the case of the I. C. road, charged with violating the Sabbath in prosecuting the work of track repairing, defendant was fined $50.

GOT FOUR HAMS

And Piece of Middling at One Haul.

Mr. Marlow Johnson's meat house was broken into Wednesday night and four large hams were carried off. The thief, or thieves, also cut a square of probably fifteen or twenty pounds out of one of the sides of bacon hanging near the hams. The lock on the door was a new one, just put on the day before.

NIGHT RIDERS

Killing the Tobacco Plants in Stewart County.

Dover, Tenn., March 27.—The night riders have made their appearance in this (Stewart) county and are doing a great deal of damage to farmers. On Scott branch, about 15 miles from this place, where a large percentage of the tobacco of this county is raised, about half of the plantbeds have either been sown in grass seed, or burned. The farmers are not blaming the association for the night depredations, as both the members of the association and the "Hill Billies" have had their plant beds destroyed. Last night G. W. Wallace and his son, both of whom are members of the association, had four plant beds destroyed by burning. It is a very easy matter to burn them, as the beds are still canvassed, and all the night rider has to do is to stick a match to the canvas, and this kills the plants. It is rumored that one farmer, who lives on Scott branch caught three men sowing his plantbeds in grass last Sunday, and it is reported that the parties will be arrested shortly.

FATHER OF 15 CHILDREN.

Brief History of the Once Famous Brown Family.

THE TEN BROTHERS.

An Incident of an An Anti-Bellum County Fair.

The Brown family was one of the largest, if not the largest, families ever raised in Christian county and its history is quite interesting.

Early in the past century Thomas Brown, who had fought under Jackson, came to Christian county, where he remained the balance of his days. He married and his wife bore him fifteen children, three of them dying in infancy. The two daughters and ten sons were raised to womanhood and manhood and those who have passed away lived to a ripe old age. There are now four of the family living, namely: Mrs. Alcock, of Mayfield; Mrs. Jerome Cason, of this city; Mr. Sam Brown, also of this city; and Judge M. D. Brown, of Madisonville. Mrs. Alcock is the oldest of the family and is now in her 91st year.

The men were all great lovers of horse flesh, and what they didn't know about horses very few could tell them. Their opinions were always worth something to a green purchaser.

The ten sons always had fine animals of their own and were graceful riders. Many of our citizens well remember the day at one of the county fairs when "The Ten Brown Brothers" appeared in the amphitheatre, riding their fine horses, the best rider to receive a silver cup. M. D. Brown, the youngest, won the prize. It was a proud day for their aged mother. She was, after great persuasion by the directors, induced to enter the ring, when the President made a speech and also gave her a silver cup. It was the chief feature of that day and an ovation for the proud mother.

Perfect masters of the horses as the Brown Brothers were, three of them lost their lives by their animals. One of them it is said, miraculously escaped being seriously injured, if not killed, on the day they rode at the fair. The horse he was riding reared and fell backward, but his rider, seeing his danger, jumped from his saddle to one side. When the horse got to his feet again the rider was on his back instantly and the parade by two around the ring went on.

One of the brothers was kicked by a horse in the side and died shortly after. That was in 1859. Another was riding a mustang pony, and being a great smoker, filled his pipe and struck a match on the skirt of his saddle. At the pop of the match the mustang took fright and threw his rider some distance, breaking his neck. This occurred in Graves county, this State. The third who met with a violent death was living at or near Ashville, Ind. He was driving a heavily loaded wagon. How it was done has never been known, but in some way he fell to the ground at the horses' heels and the wheels of the wagon passed over him and crushed out his life.

When the father of the Brown Bros. came from Virginia here he opened up a general blacksmith shop. Smiths were scarce in those days and Mr. Brown, being a good workman, he had all that he could do. He accumulated property rapidly and his children, who were born regularly at intervals of eighteen months, had unusual advantages.

EASTER DAY, ITS ORIGIN.

Next Sunday a Sort of Parade Day With Fair
Sex.

A FLOWER DAY.

Churches of the City Will Have Special Services
That Day.

Easter Sunday comes unusually early this year, falling on the 31st of March. The day will be observed at most, if not all, the local churches. Some of them will decorate and the ministers prepare sermons appropriate to the day. There will also be special music by the choirs. So far as reported by the Methodists, Episcopalians and the First Presbyterian churches will observe the day. Though many ladies have already purchased their spring hats the milliners will be kept busy during the week up to a late hour Saturday night decking out their customers in new headware. The demand for hot-house flowers will also be heavy.

Last Sunday, which was Palm Sunday, was a beautiful day and should next Sunday be what is hoped for. It will be a sort of parade day with the fair sex. The seamstresses are all rushed making spring dresses, and of course everything must be ready for Easter.

There is no authority for Easter being derived from Easter. Easter corresponds with Passover of the Jews, and as a festival observed in the Christian church from early times in commemoration of the resurrection of Jesus Christ.

It is probable that Easter received its name from the Saxon goddess Eastre, whose festival was kept about the same season each year as Easter.

In the ancient church the celebration of Easter lasted eight days, but in later times it was limited to two or three days. It used to be a festival of pleasure as well as a time for generosity and the performing of good deeds. Alms were given to the needy, the sick were visited by the rich and the great, and often slaves were freed and poor, unfortunate suffering imprisonment liberated. Services were held during the whole week preceding Easter Sunday, on which day people greeted each other with kisses, saying: "He is risen!" the response always being: "He is risen, indeed!" In the Greek Church this custom is still observed. The custom of exchanging eggs on Easter—or during Holy Week—is a very old one and symbolizes the Resurrection or renewed life.

Easter Day is always the first Sunday after the full moon which comes upon or next after the 21st of March, which date is the beginning of the old church year.

If the full moon comes on Sunday, Easter comes on the Sunday following.

"Doan's Ointment cured me of eczema that had annoyed me a long time. The cure was permanent."—Hon. S. W. Matthews, Commissioner Labor Statistics, Augusta, Me.

Hart's Will.

Joel T. Hart's will, in which he tells the history of his famous piece of statuary, "Woman Triumphant," has been found and a copy of it sent to Gov. Beckham by Brutus J. Clay, who suggests that the General Assembly appropriate money with which to have reproduced in marble the figures by Hart and that the piece be placed in the State Capitol. The will confirms the statement that the plaster model of the carving remains intact.

INTERNATIONAL BALLOON CONTEST

THE LAHM CUP & THE INTERNATIONAL AERO-NAUTIC CUP

America is to witness the next great international balloon race, and St. Louis has been designated as the "right" city by the Aero Club of America because of its central location, and also because it affords opportunity for records flights whatever the direction of the wind. The rare privilege of holding this airship contest in this country comes as a reward for the victory won by an American aeronaut, Lieut. Frank P. Lahm, in the international contest last year. His triumph is of such recent occurrence as to be still fresh in mind, and we recall with what pride American newspapers heralded the achievement.

Especially did the victory bring satisfaction and enthusiasm to the Aero Club of America for it claimed Lieut. Lahm as an honorary member and his triumph not only brought it prestige among the ballooning fraternity of Europe and brought to this side of the water the magnificent international challenge cup offered as a prize by James Gordon Bennett.

And now the Aero club is actively engaged in making arrangements for the contest this year at St. Louis. It is determined, and hoped for as well, of retaining the cup on this side of the Atlantic. Eight nations—France, Germany, Great Britain, Belgium, Sweden, Italy, Spain and the United States—each with three balloons, are entitled to compete, and the contest will be in all respects international. It is estimated that the great European balloon contests of 1906 were each witnessed by 200,000 spectators, and it is hoped that this race of 1907 will command at least equal interest. It will require all the resources of the Aero Club of America and all the energies of its members to properly organize and conduct this contest. This will, of necessity, be its chief task for 1907 and to this all else must be subordinated.

It is hoped that the history of the America's cup will be repeated and that the international cup will cross the ocean never to return. The club has been assured that three balloons of 2,200 meters, the maximum capacity permitted under the rules, will be available for its champions. There are already many applicants for the honor of being chosen as one of the three defenders of the cup, and it is certain that the winner will be a large field from which to make the selection.

The greatest interest has been displayed throughout the civilized world, and the facilities will be offered to all aeronauts visiting St. Louis during this contest. Through the liberality of various citizens and organizations of that city the Aero Club of America has been able to offer cash prizes amounting to $2,500, to be distributed among the contestants winning respectively second, third, fourth and fifth places. This is in addition to the sum of $2,500 to be given by Mr. Bennett to the winner of the cup. The Aero Club of America also offers a prize to the contestant remaining longest in the air.

As a further stimulus to ballooning, the Aero club has founded and offered for competition a challenge trophy to be known as the Lahm cup and to be held in turn by each of its members who exceeds the distance—602 miles—covered by Lieut. Lahm in winning the international cup.

The Aero club will endeavor to introduce and popularize in this country the various contests in connection with ballooning which have proved so attractive in France. These include the pursuit and capture by several balloons of a pilot balloon, and a certain start; also a contest by several balloons, the winner to be the one who lands nearest to a given spot designated on a map before the race.

Prizes will also be given to automobiles which shall start in pursuit of balloons and reach them within a given interval after their launching.

The Aero Club of America is less than two years old, having been formed in the summer of 1905 with the purpose set forth in the constitution of promoting and developing the science of aerial navigation. Founded by men who had almost without exception never made an ascension in a free balloon, the club has in one year of existence earned for itself a position in the world of sport and it is to be hoped it has opened up a brilliant career for itself in the future.

Although the Aero club is the first organization of aeronauts to be formed on the American continent it has had a number of precursors in Europe, where the science of aerial navigation has for many years received careful study and attention.

When the Aero club of America organized its first expedition, in January, 1906, balloons were imported from Paris, and the public was given the opportunity of seeing what they were like. Photographs of balloon ascensions were displayed and an effort was made to arouse a popular interest in the sport as it is practiced abroad.

This show was followed by a number of actual ascents from different places in the eastern states, and those people in one section of this country at least were given an opportunity to become familiar with aerial navigation in its simplest and safest form. The home of the Aero club, the city of New York, is unfavorably situated as a ballooning center. The ocean, the one peril of the aeronauts, is close at hand, and only with a wind from a southerly direction is an ascent to be made with perfect safety. The gas question is also an important factor, and the Aero club has found at Pittsfield, Mass., a station combining the features—distance from the sea and an abundant supply of coal gas. The great drawback is its distance from New York and other centers of population.

The Aero club has acquired two balloons, one of them, the Centaur, having made the record balloon journey from Paris to Russia in 1900. These aeronauts are available for ascensions by members and it is hoped that before long the club will be able to acquire new balloons.

It should be the province of the Aero Club of America to encourage all attempts at a solution of the flying problem, and it is almost inevitable and report upon every invention or contrivance which seems to have a reasonable chance of success. A technical committee composed of experts and scientists, in whose names and reputations the public will have confidence, will be appointed. This committee will be authorized to solicit and receive subscriptions, to be spent judiciously and when there is a good chance for a profitable return. Only by lavish expenditure of money and by continued experiments can success in flying be achieved. In France all that has been accomplished in this direction has been largely done by the generosity of a few patrons of aeronautics. The most successful of these patrons is the French government, are due to the Lebaudys, who spent large sums of money in experiments and whose wealth made possible the construction. The rich prizes offered by M. Deutsch de la Meurthe stimulated Santos-Dumont to achieve his notable flight around the Eiffel tower. M. Deutsch has built at his own expense a large airship which recently maneuvered near Paris and he has offered prizes of great value for aeronauts.

There is not in all this land of swollen fortunes one who will offer a prize of sufficient size to reward the inventor and repay him for all the years he has spent in unsuccessful effort? To England belongs the credit of having invented the steam rail engine; to France belongs the honor of producing the automobile. Shall the United States of America allow themselves to be left behind in the race to bring forth a flying machine that will fly, and thus confer one of the greatest benefits on mankind?

A Goose 71 Years Old.

Among the interesting aspects which M. Deutsch has to its credit is a goose which had reached the mature age of 71 years, says the Kansas City Journal.

This oldest inhabitant of the fowl tribe in Allen county is owned by James Strong. Mr. Strong has owned it for many years and is greatly attached to it, and does everything to make its latter days pleasant. There are, of course, reasons other than those of sentiment why this goose is safe from being served up as a table delicacy.

In 1871, when William Jones left Iowa for Kansas, a friend gave him a goose which was 35 years old at the time. It was regarded as a fairly venerable bird then, but it stood the hardship of pioneer life in Allen county with no complaint. When New Strong married a niece of Mr. Jones' he gave him the goose, and they moved to Iowa and left the goose with James Strong, who still has it.

The Weather

FOR KENTUCKY—Fair and colder Saturday.

Maj. H. B. Hersey and Walter Wellman will sail for Paris April 3 to make another start in a balloon for the north pole.

The Mayoralty contest in Chicago between Dunne and Busse is becoming intensely bitter and personal. The election comes off Tuesday.

The "dry" side won the prohibition fight in Lebanon, Ky., by a majority of 63 votes Tuesday. The contest in Owensboro April 20 is attracting attention all over the State.

Foraker has challenged Taft to a settlement of their conflicting presidential inspirations in Ohio by a primary election. Warm times are expected.

The safe in the office of the County Treasurer, at Vincennes, Ind., was robbed of over eight hundred dollars, during dinner hour, when the court house, in which the office is located, was deserted.

Harvey McCutcheon has been elected Secretary of the Democratic State Campaign Committee and C. C. Bosworth Assistant Secretary. Hon. Jas. B. Garnett, of Cadiz, was made a member of the Committee.

A wreck occurred at Colon, Cal., on the Southern Pacific Thursday, in which 25 lives were lost and 100 injured. Most of the killed were Italians from New York and New Orleans who were in the smoker. The train ran in to an open switch and the coaches were derailed.

Miss Lillie Davis, who was to have been married next week, was killed in a cemetery at Bristol, Tenn., while with Ark Hale, a rejected lover. Hale claims she shot herself, but physicians say there is evidence of assault and murder.

Harry K. Thaw Thursday underwent his first ordeal before the lunacy commission, and was questioned for two hours. At the close of the session Thaw's lawyers came out smiling. District Attorney Jerome hurried away without making any statement.

One of the speakers of the tobacco association is quoted as saying that he has a new lot of words to use in his speeches "that will burn" and "raise a blister." Our advice to association orators, in the kindest possible spirit, is to "cut out" inflammatory speeches. At any rate we hope no "burning" speeches will be attempted in this city.

The contest for Railroad Commissioner is not yet attracting the attention its importance deserves. There are five candidates, including Herman Southall, of this city, whose position in the geographical center of the district is going to make him a strong factor in the race. His friends are confident that he will be in at the finish.

Several other Kentucky papers have put on James H. Thompson contests similar to the Kentuckian's. The Cynthia Democrat is the latest. It will send three ladies to the exposition, all expenses paid. It would add to the pleasure of the trip, if all of the small parties could be merged into one large party of "Kentucky beauties." Christian county will be able to hold her own in any company.

Your Blood

Needs purifying and your whole system renovating in the spring, as pimples, boils, eruptions, loss of appetite and that tired feeling annually prove.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most effective medicine ever devised for the complete purification of the blood and the complete renovation of the whole system.

It will make you feel better, look better, eat and sleep better and give you the best possible preparation for the hot days of summer, as over 40,000 people have testified in the last two years. Today buy and begin to take

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Usual form, liquid, or in tablet form, called Sarsatab, 100 Doses $1. GUARANTEED under the Food and Drugs Act, June 30, 1906. No. 324.

A Commission to be appointed by Justice Fitzgerald, of the Supreme Court will decide the question as to whether Harry K. Thaw is now sane. His trial before a jury for the murder of Stanford White will be interrupted pending the report of the commission. If the commission report that he is insane, the trial will be resumed, but if it should be found that he is sane, application will be made for his commitment to an asylum, probable that at Mattawan, for the criminally insane.

The commission is composed of David McClure, a former Justice of the Supreme Court, Peter B. Ousel, a lawyer, and Dr. Leopold Funez.

A study of the commerce of dissipation of Chicago, its paralyzing of government and the ruin and disaster it has brought upon a city civilization is contributed to the April McClure's by George Kibbe Turner. Tremendous forces, which are working to destroy our social organization in every great city of the country, are shown exactly as they are, and the grim, bare, menacing facts of their operation are stated with candor and conservatism. The facts constitute of themselves one of the most startling arraignment of American life ever brought into public notice. Mr. Turner will be remembered as the author of "Galveston: A Business Corporation," published last October in McClure's. The article aroused wide-spread interest and caused discussion in civic organizations in many cities. Since then several cities in the Southwest and West have adopted the Galveston system of government.

Much Cooler

The drop in temperature yesterday morning was a great relief. For three weeks mercury in the tube, like the American eagle, "had been soaring aloft," sometimes almost reaching the 90 degree mark. As we had had no rain during the entire time weather prophets had already been saying that we are in for a drought. But with the rain and cooler weather everybody is feeling better and vegetation is humming. If this is to be our last day on earth it will be a grand one before the comet switches it tail thereby causing the "earth to melt with fervent heat."

HOG CHOLERA

The Hog worm is the most dangerous foe of the Hog

In almost every outbreak of cholera you will find the hogs very wormy. They get a hog out of condition and unthrifty. Then he is an easy prey to disease. The Snoddy Remedy will destroy every character of hog worm. Even the liver and lung worm, which are the most dangerous, are easily destroyed with the Snoddy Remedy. Ten cents worth of the Snoddy Remedy will clear out the worms and purify the blood of a hundred pound shoat, so that he will be worth one dollar or more in a few weeks than he would have gained without this remedy.

Can't you afford to invest ten cents per head to make your shoats worth a dollar per head more than they would without this little investment? Then why waste time and feed on wormy runty hogs when it is easy to have them thrifty? It also prevents and cures Hog Cholera. Any practical farmer can stop the worst outbreak of cholera that ever came with it and restore his herd to thrift in a few days' time.

It is used and endorsed by the leading hog raisers of the country. Snoddy's free book on the care and management of hogs, so as to keep them thrifty and clear of cholera or worms, can be had by calling on the Planter, H. C. Co., Inc., Hopkinsville, Ky., and E. W. Stegert, Dixon, Maconville, Ky. They also keep the remedy for sale.

Livery Change

I have bought the livery business of Evitts & Courtney, on North Main street, and would be glad to have my old friends and customers call on me. I am going to do a general livery business, keep none but the best help, board horses, furnish the very best rigs and guarantee satisfaction in every way. I am the oldest man in the business in the city and am not afraid to make the assertion that I will please all.

Good Local News By Skipping Page 2 of this Paper

So great has been the demand for advertising space for several months that we have had to greatly condense a great deal of local news, which is always a special feature of the Kentuckian. As long as the advertising public crowds us, we will devote page two to local matter. This paper always gives everything that is in the air—and a good deal of "hot air" besides.

DAPT. ANNIE STROHL.

Salvation Army Lass Visits the City.

Capt. Annie Strohl, of Cincinnati, of the Salvation Army, was here Thursday soliciting funds for the organization she represents. She collected quite a nice sum from the business men. Capt. Strohl, who is a little bright faced young woman, wearing the regulation costume of the Salvation Army, expressed herself as much pleased with Hopkinsville and the reception given her.

TO-MORROW

The Day for the World to Be Destroyed.

Some of the "smart ones" have predicted that this world is to be destroyed tomorrow by being set on fire by the new comet's tail. If you are inclined to be uneasy and feel that you are unprepared for the end, read the 24th chapter of "Matthew, particularly the 36th verse: "But of that day and hour knoweth no man, no, not the angels of heaven, but my Father only."

The astronomers and scientists of today are pretty smart fellows, but when they "arrange for a date" they may be accused of imagining themselves a little wiser than the Master and the angels of heaven, which nobody believes. This old world will be moving on Monday morning as usual.

Roads Rough.

Farmers say that the country roads are now awfully rough. Three weeks of perfectly dry weather and high winds at times have dried out the roads, and we hear of some complaint about high land being almost too dry for plowing. To please all people in weather is something the weather clerk never has and never will be able to do, and the world has never learned to take it as it comes without complaining.

Baby won't suffer five minutes with croup if you apply Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil at once. It acts like magic.

PROFESSIONAL BALL.

A Big Game at Central City April 6th.

Everyone who enjoys the whole-some amusement, baseball, should make it a point to attend the great game that will be played at Central City on Saturday, April 6th. George P. Dovey, who was raised at Central City, has bought the Boston National League Baseball Co., and has contracted to play an exhibition game at his old home town on the return of his team from its southern training trip. This is an opportunity to see professional baseball that has not been enjoyed by the people of this section of the state heretofore. Never before has one of the big teams played in any of our small towns. This will be the same kind of a game that you would see in Louisville or New York. Central City will also be represented by professional players of the very best, and the opposing teams will both be very strong. The Central City Athletic and Fair Association has fenced a very commodious park and built a regular grand stand that will seat a thousand people. There will be round trip rates of one and one-third fare on the F. C. from Princeton to Louisville and on the L. & N. from Russellville to Owensboro, tickets good returning next day, Sunday, April 7th. An enjoyable day is assured all who attend.

Successful Farmers!

This will Interest You!

The above cut represents Clark's Double Action Cutaway Harrow. This is truly a remarkable tool. The following statements in regard to it have been thoroughly demonstrated:

It will cut from 28 to 30 acres, or will double cut 15 acres in a day. It is drawn by two medium horses. It will move 15,000 tons of earth one foot in a day. It can be set so as to move the earth but little, or at so great an angle as to move all the earth one foot. It keeps the surface true and the machine runs true in line of draft. This cannot be said of any other disc harrows.

The Clark Cutaway Harrows will cut and reduce the toughest sod to plant food quickly without the aid of a plow. Clark's Cutaway Harrows are intense and perfect cultivators of soil and are money makers. Every crop is increased 25 to 50 per cent. by their use. 300,000 farmers are now using them. The Journal Boxes are made of hard wood, soaked in oil, and will outwear any metal. The Disks are cutlery steel and never break. We also sell Clark's Cutaway Plows.

We have the exclusive sale of these tools and have just received a carload of them. You'll make a serious mistake to buy without seeing them.

Appelo, Wis., March 26.—Elmore Sheppard, 17 years old, known throughout the land as Big Eno, the Coon, the heaviest man in the United States, died here this morning of fatty degeneration of the heart. The body had to be removed from the house before being placed in a coffin, no door or window in the building being large enough to permit the burial casket being taken into the house.

Doan's Kidney Pills will do this.
Here is Hopkinsville testimony to prove it.

J. W. Pritchett, retired grocer of 752 East 7th Street, says: "My back has given me a great deal of trouble.
The pain was not continually severe but came on by intermittent spells, which were sometimes very painful especially after over-exertion of any kind. Being constantly on the outlook for something to re-

Buff Color

A letter we saw recently stated that the writer of it wanted to secure some birds of a certain buff variety, says E. W. Rankin in the Poultry Herald. He said he wanted a deep orange buff, no light buff for him. Was this writer correct?

For answer it is only necessary to refer to the Standard. The orange or reddish buff was long ago ruled out of court by the fanciers of buff varieties, "and the Standard calls for a rich golden buff. Orange buff is not the color now desired, and is not the color that wins at the leading poultry shows. And in our judgment orange buff is not a beautiful shade or color in poultry. But the rich golden buff of the Standard—what is more beautiful than this?

The Standard rejects on one side
the orange buff, and on the other the pale, or lemon buff. What is wanted is a shade of color like that of a ten-dollar gold piece. The buff bird should be of even shade of color all over in plumage. There should be no unevenness, as for instance, a darker shade of color in hackle and on the surface of wings. Such birds satisfied the demands of some years ago, but they are not wanted now.

Buff is desired also in the under color in all sections, though surface color is more important than under color. The importance of under color is sometimes exaggerated. The buff color should extend to the primary feathers. The latter are difficult to secure and are not often seen, but this is the ideal to be striven for.

That the color described above is beautiful is acknowledged by every lover of poultry, though it is not the favorite color with all. That it is a difficult color to get in perfection is one of its chief attractions to many.

A Sensible Turkey Talk.

The main thing is not to feed young turkeys more than three times a day and let the turkey hen take care of them. Keep them out of the wet.

Breeding turkeys can profitably be kept up to the fifth year.

In the selection of Bronze turkey breeders, the body should be long and deepest at the center, with a full breast, broad back, strong thighs and shanks of moderate length. In young birds the shanks are a dead black, but they grow lighter with age until they are a pink or flesh color.

The hen turkey is more in demand
than the male for the market.
Mashed potatoes mixed with cornmeal alternated with shelled corn, is good for fattening turkeys. Barley is good also.

When in the least indisposed the turkey will hold its head down between its shoulders and refuse foods.
During incubation a turkey can cover from fifteen to twenty eggs while an ordinary hen cannot cover more than half that many.

A good plan in killing turkeys for market is to hang them up and cut the throat so as to bleed freely.
They should be picked then, leaving head and wings on.

Some turkey raisers prefer marking the toms in the month of December, and keep the hens until later, so that they may increase in weight and command a better price.
A plump young turkey, dressing from eight to fifteen pounds, finds a market at almost any season of the year.—Petaluma Poultry Journal.

Interesting Observations on Graeco.

THE scientist has a good deal to learn yet about the grape worm, but a few practical facts seem to be established.

In some way the trouble comes from the ground. It may be contracted from feeding on fish worms taken from infected ground. I think it may appear without the worms.
It seems to be sufficient for the chicks to search and dig in the bare earth. At any rate, I have been quite successful in raising chicks in gape infected quarters when the hen was confined to a covered run on a heavy sod and moved often enough to prevent her digging down to the soil.

This disease seems to be limited to certain sections and soils. Throughout the middle sections of this country it amounts at times to a scourge on heavy, clayey, or low lying soils, though it seems to give little trouble on sandy soil. I know of one farm with sandy soil and sand and gravel subsoil where the chickens have been raised in the same locations every year for probably thirty years, and without serious trouble at any time, and never except in extremely wet seasons. Here on Ventura Farm gapes may be counted on if chicks are raised two years in succession in the same spot, sometimes even in dry seasons. In England gapes is almost an unknown disease.

I do not consider gape "cures" practical. Dooding gape chickens is a very slow and expensive pastime, and they generally die from the treatment if they escape the worm.
The horsehair method kills as many as it cures, and is very slow. Camphor administered in lumps the size of a small pea will cure some. Turpentine never helped my chicks; venetian red and asafoetida have little if any value; and the various "old wives'" remedies are useless. If treatment of any sort is attempted it is important to remember that dry, warm locations, preferably pens with board floors are always imperative.

In prevention we have very little more encouragement. In favorable seasons (as last one has been in this neighborhood), chicks may be raised almost anywhere. In wet seasons there is absolutely no practical method except to keep the chicks where the ground is not contaminated. It is not a serious matter to move the coops to a new location each year, and generally not inconvenient if you once make up your mind it has to be done.

Chickens can be raised in absolute freedom from gapes in any locality if the same spot is not used two years in succession. One of my friends starts his chickens in a large empty hay mow. This or a barn floor is almost an ideal place for starting chicks. If not too late hatched they are large enough to be out of danger usually by the time the mows are needed at harvest.

There is no practical way of treating infected ground, so far as I know. Frequent moving and cleaning of coops, and covering bare spots with slaked lime, will do much to keep the premises from infection, but the common recommendation to use lime and floored coops as a means of curing the trouble after it has once made an appearance, can only come from those whose experience is very limited. I doubt if there is anything that can be applied successfully to infected soils, but lime certainly will not answer—neither one application nor many.

I have one small house with yards Six by six, used for a brooding house for several years, until it was not possible to raise chicks in it at any season, which I used last summer in experimenting with various methods of curing and preventing gapes. After satisfying myself that the popular cures already mentioned were delusions, I tried the preventives. The house was thoroughly cleaned and heavily sprayed with kerosene emulsion. The outside yards were heavily limed and then yard No. 1 was covered with two or three inches deep with ashes and sawdust; No. 2 was soaked with kerosene emulsion and No. 3 with brine. Gapes appeared in three weeks in No. 1; a day or two later in No. 2, and in about four days more in No. 3. Since it is supposed to take three weeks for the worm to develop after infection, it is plain that these treatments accomplished so little that the chicks were probably infected the first day
they were turned into the yards.
Yard No. 2 was limed once or twice previous to the experiment, and at

The difficulty with soil treatments is that they defeat their purpose by killing vegetation if heavily applied and leave the ground bare without being able to penetrate deep enough to kill all traces of the infection. I would rather attempt to raise chicks on heavy sod without treatment than on bare ground, no matter how treated. If the same location must be used year after year, the cheapest and most effective method is to cover it with sand, gravel or coal ashes so deep the hens or chicks can-then keep them confined to this place till danger from gapes is passed.—

The Sunrise

By Jennet Johnson

(Copyright, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

The man let the tiller go and dropped both hands on his knees. The boat slid back and in toward the help bed again, slowly, obstinately. Forward his wife was wrapping her damp jacket around the little girl who showed signs of slumber. The boy was moving restlessly about, eager to help his father, and in the moonlight his thin little body looked aghast and unreal.

"It's no use," the man said, "the tide's going out too strongly and there's not a breath of wind in this confounded place!"

He caught his wife's glance, but she looked away quickly with light-eyed lips. The boat was drifting along the kelp edge now, and they heard the soft splash of water under the keel. A faint stir of air came from the brown-bluffed shore and roughened ever so slightly the still ripples under the moonlight.

"We'll have to lie up in the kelp," the man said, "and wait for the tide to turn. It must be about 12 now and it will turn at five." The tone said "make the best of it," but the woman flung up her head rebelliously.

They sat in the cold moonlight with no sound but the mysterious, fitful murmur of the water and the slap of the kelp. The boy began to shiver and yawn and his father wrapped him in his coat, offering his shoulder as a pillow. The dampness came strange ly, silently, powerfully, from the moonlight, and cut into their very bones.

The woman sat upright, refusing sleep and bending over the baby curls in her lap. She was full of feelings as hard, as cutting cold as the moonlight itself.

She glanced at her husband pulling at his empty pipe and staring ahead. He had been so like him—moving by impulse to take a moonlight sail—not ignorant of the wind or tide, but trusting gaily that the ebb would not begin nor the ocean breeze die down until they were back in the channel again! And if the children should take cold! The boy had been ill; they had come to the shore for his sake!

She bit her lips in misery. She should not have consented. She should have firmly forbidden the sail at the first. But it was too hard to put out the eager pleasure of those children's eyes—to play the part of Reproof, Reason, Unpleasant Authority! Already, she felt, the children came to her fearfully for permission. They loved her, yes, but she wasn't the person to "enjoy life with!" The burning realization came to her that they felt she was necessary for their living, but not for their loving. That one was the father, the happy-go-lucky boyfather, who could devise pleasures in a moment and whose pockets yielded a harvest of sweets and toys every evening after dinner. They loved him for the same humor and charm that had blinded her to the real man (or lack of real man) on their first meeting.

She remembered that day perfectly; the originality of it all that had fascinated her into thinking that it was the beginning of the greatest epoch in her life.

She remembered her delight at the wedding luncheon—how they had slipped away to the station and seated themselves in a remote corner, same tickets, same plans and same responsibility. As a special favor, she recalled, he had allowed her to pick out their responsibility, a tanned fellow in tweeds with a leather tackle-box and rod case.

"There," she had whispered, "go just behind him, Teddy, and get two tickets to the place where he is going!"

The weeks in that lovely trout country had been perfect. Ah, why could not life go on calling for nothing but humor and appreciation?

But the next chapter—Disillusion—had come speedily. When the boy was born she had been in the Self-disgusted chapter, and now she had reached Rebellion.

In these seven years she had had to admit that she had married the humor of the man and that humor was not one of the bigger things. Indeed she decided that she had lost her sense of humor.

Now she said to herself with a grim humor, that if they had been poorer their marriage would have been one of those which are a synonym for taking in washing. She was worn out with these years as provider, father, mother, teacher—everything but playfellow—she blamed him for letting the double responsibility crush out her fun, her humor; she blamed him for taking all of the children's love; she blamed him for everything that her active brain could call up in those seven hard years. She shut her teeth tightly and clenched her cold fingers in scorn.

"They would leave him. The children should see him sometimes, and when they were grown they would understand—Yes, when they reached home she would tell him. A curious gray began to come into the sky. Suddenly the man leaned forward. He was watching a bit of moon rise floating slowly toward the boat. Opposite, it almost stopped and the man caught his breath sharp ly.

"Shirley, take the boy," he whispered, "I'm going to row." The blunt-sloped moon moved slowly from the kelp as the man bent his strength over the oars. The children woke up, and the father, taking to them in his jolly way. Their "little source," he called it, and offered his wife a piece of smoking tobacco "to chew on for comfort." The boy laughed and reported it to his mother with a child's delight over an inch of gain, but his mother leaned back against the damp gunwale, sick with cold and disgust.

The boy sat by the prow, the little girl fell asleep again with her head in her mother's lap. In and out, in and out the man dipped the oars, and in the silence the boat crept forward.

A change had been creeping over the sky so silently and gradually that it seemed to have no beginning. The woman only knew that another light different from the yellow-white moonlight had come. It was a wonderful coming, that of the pearl morning. The shadow of the little, moored skiff crept up to, and beyond was mirrored in gray water.

The woman offered formally to rise, accepting calmly the man's short smile of refusal. She was too cold and tired to feel any inward thing now—vaguely she knew that the man was worn out, that his breath was gasping, but she was numb even to pity.

Then suddenly the boy called out: "The morning!" and life swept back into them all. With their eyes on the rope, the dipping float ahead, they kept nearer through the long, silent minutes.

Suddenly the woman felt within her a growing sensation of strange pleasure. Her dried brain refused to analyze it; she only knew that something warmed her numbness and cold, and that life seemed a pleasanter thing as they came to the morning she stood up and looked toward the lightening sky. Over the breakwater and through the rude row of fishermen's cabins glowed the first pink of sunrise.

She had never felt so moved before. She wondered if she were not another woman, one of the simple creatures who live and move by instinct upon those who find life while simple because they are wife and mother of a home. Nonsense! She was herself, cold, angry and determined. And yet—she felt like laughing.

Silently they went past the sleeping cottages to their own. The true morning had come and on the porch they turned to look at the sunrise. Waves of pink flooded the sky and warmed the lapping gray waters. Then, as they stood, the bright, gorgeous sun rose from behind the far hills and shone into their faces.

Together They Watch the Sun Clear the Hills.

Inside the children were laughing and rustling cocky bags. The boy had lit the logs in the fireplace and the flames cheered his little room. Their light fell upon the man's knife and a half-finished boat for the boy's ylna on the table.

The woman turned and looked into her husband's face, boy-handsome—now haggard and sunken with its man's care lines. As the warmth of the sun grew, a blinding film seemed to leave her eyes and brain and heart.

For the first time she felt herself a real woman—the cold, analytical creature was left somewhere out there in the channel with the shadows and the cold—the shadow and cold which they had struggled through together—home—yes, together. Suddenly she felt there in the golden light how very incomplete she was alone—how impossible a life alone would be for her. She glanced inside again at the half-awakened boat and at her husband's white face beside her, and the meaning of their strange joy at the landing when she had stood close against him flashed over her.

Two were needed to make the real home—she felt that now—the woman and the man she loved. There was, all unconsciously, magically, the right one, the keystone to her own completed life, and now the woman turned—knowing and acknowledging.

Had she meant to be angry? Were there past and future vexations to trouble? It all seemed very vague and far away from his present full moment in the new sunshine. The glow of the home fire and the sun went through every vein in her body. Her arm slipped around his neck. Together they watched the sun clear the hills.

He mistook. He was treating his pretty city cousin to the opera.

"Wouldn't you like to step out and get a libretto, Josh?" she said, as the first curtain fell.

"No," said he, "by gosh, I wouldn't. A fellow what can't set out a show 'bout sneakin' out 'twixt every act for libretto and cocktails and sich ain't no man, 'ord'na to my way of thinkin'."

Questions For Poultrymen.

If your fowls are ailing, can you determine from their actions what the trouble is?

If you can, do you know of a remedy that is absolutely reliable every time?

Can you tell just what causes that particular ailment, so as to prevent its recurrence?

Do you know that you are entitled to just so much profit from each fowl, whether you own three or three thousand?

Do you fully understand how to house them, feed them, treat them, breed them and raise them, to fully realize the greatest profit?

How would you like to have, right at your hand, the condensed opinions, the consensus of opinion, of the most successful poultry raisers of the country, as your daily guide in poultry culture?

How would you like to have this opinion of the most successful indexed and condensed, so that you would not have to wade through volumes to get at the meat of the question you may have in your mind?

How would you like to know at once, the best form of house, the best breed of poultry for a given purpose and given locality and climate, the best appliance for a specific purpose, the best of interest for the poultryman?

As this is the season for gapes, what do you know about the matter? What causes this disease? What will you do to cure it absolutely? What will prevent your fowls from having it again? What will cure it without all the trouble and uncertainty of fumes, extractors and all that nonsense?

This is how! Look up G. E. Conkey's advertisement in this issue and note the conditions for obtaining Conkey's book on Poultry Diseases free. It has been selling for 25c and is worth dollars. Send to-day.

Impure blood runs you down—makes you an easy victim for organic diseases. Burdock Blood Bitters purifies the blood—cures the cause—builds you up.

Diphtheria in Hens.

This disease spreads rapidly, and if not checked kills in two to four days all the birds affected. There should be no hesitation to kill and bury or burn the diseased hens, if they are not of high value; for diphtheria alone is enough to destroy the largest and most thriving flock.

When the sick bird is examined, it is easily seen that the beak and the tongue are becoming coated with whitish, more or less thick, false membranes, that the nostrils are stopped up with a mucous secretion; brooding is laborious, the bird is drowsy, its feathers ruffled and its gait tottering.

Smear the beak and throat with a feather dipped in a mixture of vinegar, one part, and ordinary honey, two parts, brought to a gentle heat to facilitate their thorough mixing.

The diseased birds must be removed from the flock, the water and litter changed and the poultry house disinfected.—Bulletin Ottawa Experiment Farm.

THE KENTUCKIAN will send to the Jamestown Exposition the four most popular young women in Christian County. The Kentuckian will pay every cent of expense, including railroad fare; Pullman fare; meals on train; hotel bills; street car fare; admission to grounds and amusement concessions; side trips to points in the vicinity of the Exposition grounds.

The contest is open to any young lady making her home in Christian county. For each year's subscription to the Kentuckian at $2.00 the subscriber will be entitled to cast 40 votes.

Your contest began Nov. 15th and will continue for 6 months; to May 15.

YOU choose the candidate—WE don't. The minute a vote is cast for a young woman she becomes a candidate and her name is placed upon the published list, together with the total vote cast for her up to the time the list is published.

When a subscription is received at this office the subscriber is first credited with the amount of his subscription and the number of votes his subscription represents is credited to the candidate named by him.

The vote will be COUNTED EVERY FRIDAY at noon and each candidate will be credited with her new vote and her total vote to date and the result will be published in the next issue of the Kentuckian.

ANOTHER OUTRAGE

This time it is the Cutting of Telephone Wires

A body of masked night riders in Trigg county a few nights ago cut the wires of the Cumberland Telephone Co., between Cadiz and Golden Pond, for no apparent reason except pure devilment. So many different forms of lawlessness seem to be prevailing in Trigg county, that we need not be surprised at anything we hear. Night riding, barn-raiding, planted destruction, wire cutting, threatening letters and organized boycotts are only a few of the methods adopted to show a contempt for the law. It is about time somebody was taking steps to stamp out vandalism in that great and law-abiding county, which is disgraced by such lawlessness on the part of a few of its citizens. There is authority for the statement that the vandals who destroyed the telephone wires were caught in the act by a man who did not have the courage to give the alarm.

FULLY READY

And Some Excellent Sales Have Been Made Already

The Planters Association is now fully ready for business. Have been making some very gratifying sales the past week, at prices fully two cents above loose sales, and two cents above the average of last season. Those who have delivered their crops in good order will be paid more for it than they have received for 15 years. So much for the organization.

CHURCH CHIMES.

Special Song Services and Sermons For the Day

If Weather Is Favorable Churches Will Be Crowded

Nearly all the churches in the city will have special Easter services tomorrow. Decorations and sermons have been prepared and appropriate music has been in preparation for several days by the choirs of most of the churches. We have investigated and the announcements given below may be strictly relied upon:

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

Rev. E. H. Bull will preach an Easter sermon and there will be special music and a violin solo by Mr. Heberlin. Everybody most cordially invited.

EPISCOPAL.

At Grace Episcopal church there will be Easter communion in the morning at 7:30. Regular morning services at 10:45, and children's Easter services at 4:30. Special music has been prepared for the regular morning services. As is the custom with this church, the audience room will be beautifully decorated. A general invitation is extended to all the above services.

METHODIST.

At the Methodist church they will have interesting services, both morning and evening. Dr. Lyon has prepared a special Easter sermon and special music will also be rendered, morning and evening. The floral decorating will be something unusually nice.

CUMBERLAND.

Rev. A. C. Biddle will preach morning and evening at the usual hours. He has prepared an Easter sermon for the morning service. Subject: "Seeking the Living Among the Dead." The audience room will be decorated and appropriate anthems and songs will be rendered. Everybody invited.

NINTH STREET PRESBYTERIAN.

Dr. Fogartie, the pastor of the Ninth Street Presbyterian church, has prepared a sermon specially for young people and will be glad to have as many of the youth of the city present as can attend. The sermon can be heard with profit by older people.

BAPTIST.

Rev. Geo. W. McPherson, who has been conducting a revival at Owensboro for three weeks, will be at home today, and will preach Sunday morning and evening at the Baptist church at the usual hours.

CHRISTIAN.

Regular morning and evening services at the usual hours, will be held at the Christian church. Rev. H. D. Smith occupying the pulpit at both services.

LADIES TO HELP

Will Give Jamestown Entertainment Next Week

About fifteen ladies responded to the call to meet and discuss plans for aiding the Jamestown fund. They decided to have an evening entertainment the second week in April. The details have not been arranged. Committees were appointed and the program will be announced shortly.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

To Meet in Hopkinsville at Early Date.

The next meeting of the executive committee of the Dark Tobacco Association will be held in this city instead of Guthrie. The date of the meeting has not yet been announced.

Died at Asylum.

Miss Mattie Hunter, an inmate of the asylum, died at that institution last Thursday evening. The remains were shipped to Roberts, Ky., yesterday for burial.

A Man Without a Home.

Is a man without an anchor. The Hopkinsville Building & Loan Association will aid you in securing you a home.

REFUSES TO PAY

A Policy on the Life of the Late H. M. Dalton.

The Interstate Life Assurance Co., of Indianapolis, is resisting the payment of a $10,000 policy on the life of the late H. M. Dalton, taken out as a "flyer" ten months before his death by accident, May 3, 1906. The case was argued in Federal court at Louisville Thursday.

The court overruled the demurrer to the first paragraph of the answer, this paragraph being a general denial that the policy was in full force and effect, and sustained the demurrer to the second, third and fourth paragraphs of the answer. These paragraphs charge that the agent delivered the premium without authority, that a rebate was accepted, contrary to the Kentucky law, and that death by carrying a deadly weapon, whether voluntary or involuntary, relieved defendant of responsibility. The defendants were given until April 13 in which to amend their answer.

PERSONAL GOSSIP.

Mrs. F. C. Clardy and two little sons, who had been visiting Mrs. J. N. Prestridge, in Louisville, returned home today.

Mr. Walter Ezell, of the firm of Ezell & Stevenson, merchants at Lafayette, was here Thursday, enroute home from the markets, where he purchased his spring and summer stock.

Max Moayon and James Watson returned from Louisville Wednesday. They express themselves as being delighted with the exposition.

Misses Bettie Lee Smith and Julia DeTreville, who have been visiting in Bowling Green, and also in Louisville, were expected home last night.

HERE AND THERE.

FOR SALE—a few tons of hay and some corn. R. H. RIVES, Cumb. Phone 250 4.

Always keep a bottle of I. W. HARPER whiskey in sight. Good to look at and good to taste; and what's more a benefit to your health. Sold by W. R. Long, Hopkinsville, Ky.

A LITTLE SAVINGS BANK

Commercial and Savings Bank,

Published by Permission of Owner

The young man that has other accounts had for years intended to save. He received a nice salary and in addition has an INCOME that the STATEMENT BELOW REPRESENTS. When the COMMERCIAL & SAVINGS BANK was opened he owed a note of two years standing for Fifty-Five Dollars [$55] that he had been unable to meet, although his salary and additional income had been practically the same.

Withdrawals

August 2	$ 55 00
September 29	15 00
November 13	50 00
Total	$120.00

The first amount, $55, withdrawn paid his note, the next $15 purchased him a resting place after the cares and trials of this life are over, and the last $50 was spent in various and sundry ways unaccounted for, leaving a balance to his credit in bank on Feb. 1st, 1907, of $109.88. We think this a nice showing and would be glad to ADD YOUR NAME to our list of savings depositors. Call at the bank or drop us a card and get literature fully explaining.
